Hi All,

I know I always say what a busy week we have had but This week has been above and beyond lol. I am also aware that as we pootle along towards Christmas that the weeks are only likely to become even more busy and packed with fun filled events and learning as we go.

This week we had a number of visitors into our school, which is always lovely as I like to hear the feedback back from our visitors as to their first impressions. As always all the feedback was incredibly positive with visitors feeling the Sharley Park warm family feel.

Also this week we had training for our Year 6 sports leaders which was very successful and we can't wait for them to be active in school, especially at lunch times. We had both the drone man and remembrance services on the Monday. The footage from the drone film will be available soon on the website. I have to say I was immensely proud of all our children in the 2 minutes silence. 2 minutes is a very long time for some of our little ones but the whole school were fabulous. A sensory audit of school was carried out and our feedback was brilliant.

On Tuesday we had odd sock day which was so much fun, watching everyone looking at each others socks. On Wednesday, after school, all the staff went to subject network meetings with 22 other schools, the feedback was that Sharley Park are at the forefront of an ambitious and engaging curriculum offer.

Which leads me to today– Children in Need day. This is one of my favourite days as the children really get in to the spirit of this worthy cause. A big thank you to everyone who took part and especially to everyone who entered the art competition.

Let's see what next week brings. Have a great weekend Mrs S xx

Teddy News!

This week I have been in and out of classrooms looking at work which has been fun. I was a little confused on Tuesday as the small people all had different socks on, so I think they must have all gotten dressed in the dark in the morning?

They were all back to normal the next day so I think it was just a one day issue.

Love Teddy xx
